

GOING, GOING.

The Gold Reserve Forced Down to $100,000,000.

The Decrease Is Due to Recent Shipments of Gold for Foreign Use.

Secretary Carlisle Expresses No Concern Over the Situation—He Takes Issue With Those Who Insist Upon Its Maintenance for Redemption of Notes.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The treasury gold was reduced Tuesday to $100,000,000.

This decrease in the reserve is due to the recent shipments of gold for foreign use. It is not expected there will be any great demand in the immediate future for the yellow metal, but it is certain that the $100,000,000 line will be crossed very soon. When this happens, it will be the second time under the democratic administration that the reserve, which has been regarded as a trust fund by republicans, will have been used for other purposes than that for which it was created.

Secretary Carlisle expresses no concern over the situation, saying that nothing happened to the country when he used gold out of the reserve before, and he does not expect any serious consequences to follow a repetition of this act.

Secretary Carlisle takes issue with those who insist upon its maintenance intact for the redemption of United States notes. While recognizing the necessity of keeping a good supply of gold on hand, and even arguing that the reserve should be greater than $100,000,000, owing to increased circulation caused by the issue of treasury notes on silver bullion, Secretary Carlisle insists that there is no vestige remaining of the original reserve proposed by the sale of bonds. The secretary told your correspondent Tuesday that he had no expectation that congress would come to the relief of the treasury with the authorization desired for a new bond issue at a rate lower than that now fixed by law. In fact, he did not expect any bond legislation and had, therefore, prepared himself to continue in the even course of his way by meeting all demands from whatever funds he might have on hand.

Mr. Carlisle contends that originally the secretary of the treasury sold $96,000,000 worth of bonds under the law of 1875 and put the money obtained from this sale in the treasury. Money derived from bonds, the secretary declares, is like money derived from any other source of revenue, it goes into the assets of the treasury. All these points Secretary Carlisle explained to the judiciary committee in January last, and he has not changed his views in the slightest degree.

He holds that the $96,000,000 derived from the sale of bonds by Secretary Sherman was long ago used for the redemption of legal tenders, and in addition to this $96,000,000 has been paid out for the same purpose. Therefore, none of the original reserve created for the redemption of United States notes remains, and the gold which has been gathered since from various sources, including the sale of bonds, can be used for current expenses.

THIS JUSTICE NOT BLIND.

A Pretty Girl Refused to Put Her Leg in Evidence and Lost Her Case.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The wheels of justice are being clogged by modesty in a legal proceeding in the village of Clarenceville, L. I. Miss Ella Collingsworth is a sprightly young woman who lives in that village. Last Friday she was passing the store of Henry Watson, on Atlantic avenue, when a savage dog sprang upon her. She started to run, but the dog fastened its teeth upon one of her legs, inflicting, so she affirms, a painful wound. Then Miss Collingsworth applied to Justice Lott for an order to have the dog shot.

The owner of the animal entered a plea that there was no evidence to show a wound had been inflicted. He demanded that the court see the bite, and the court decided that the order could not be granted until there was substantial proof that the dog was dangerous. The young woman's face became suffused with blushes, and she indignantly refused to offer her injured leg in evidence. The dog still lives, and Miss Collingsworth says she is about to begin a civil suit against Watson.

SHOOTING IN COURT.

The Plaintiff Tried to Kill His Brother-in-Law After His Losing a Suit For $75,000.

NEW YORK, April 25.—In the circuit court Tuesday the plaintiff in a suit fired four shots at defendant, but all missed their mark. The suit out of which the shooting grew was for $75,000, and had just been decided against the plaintiff, Michael Donnelly, of Albany, so he did his best to kill his brother-in-law, P. J. McArdle, of this city.

The first shot was fired deliberately at McArdle's body, but missed its mark. The other shots were fired as Donnelly was being upset by Wales Severance, his lawyer, and they struck the ceiling. Both Donnelly and Lawyer Severance fell to the floor. So did McArdle, though he had not been struck by any of the bullets.

Judge Bischoff, who was sitting on the bench, became alarmed and left the court room as quickly as possible. Several policemen had been attracted to the scene by this time, and they gathered together all the persons in the room concerned in the shooting and hurried them to the station house, where Donnelly was placed in a cell.

While in the station house another exciting scene occurred. Donnelly turned upon McArdle and called him a murderer and a thief, and finally made a dash for him with the intention of doing him injury, but the police restrained him. Donnelly soon after was taken to the Tombs police court, where he was held for examination Wednesday.

COXEY HOME RESERVE.

A Movement That Will Strengthen Gov. Waite With Kindred Spirits.

DENVER, Col., April 25.—The Coxeys army home reserve has been organized by the influence of Gov. Waite's closest supporters, and Tuesday over one thousand names were added to the rolls. The plan is to organize ten companies of fifty men, each with proper officers, for the purpose of aiding, comforting and assisting the Coxeys army. A series of resolutions have been prepared declaring that the home reserve is in sympathy with the living petition of Coxeys, and condemning the acts and utterances of any governor or judge or any other persons who may do or say anything to interfere with the peaceable moving of any large body of men now on their way, or who may hereafter start to the national capital for the same or kindred purposes. It was asserted that heretofore all petitions to congress presented by the industrial classes have been consigned to flames or the waste basket, while there never was a time when demands made by the plutocracy were denied.

FIREMEN INJURED.

Seven Hurt at Memphis by the Collapse of a Building.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 25.—Seven firemen were severely injured by falling timbers in a burning building at 185 Main street, in this city, Tuesday night. The injured are: John M. Dolan, left arm broken; Mike Cleary, bruised and internally injured; John Moore, leg crushed; Richard Borrows, burned and bruised about body and limbs; James Monahan, arm crushed; Thomas Meredith, burned and injured about the head; Wm. Whalen, body and leg crushed. Whalen was buried in the ruins, but is still alive.

The fire broke out at 7 o'clock in the food and grain store of W. J. Chase and spread all over the building in a few seconds. The firemen had scarcely reached the second floor when the building collapsed, burying them in the ruins.

The loss on the building and stock will aggregate $38,000. Whalen was rescued at 11 o'clock. His injuries are serious.

DYNAMITE.

A Boy Handles a Box of the Stuff With Deadly Effect.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 25.—An explosion of dynamite occurred at the corner of Southern avenue and Natchez street Friday evening, causing the death of Hugo Ralph, a seventeen-year-old boy, the fatal injury of Andrew McCline, and the serious injury of Michael Gallagher. George Kent, who is building a sewer on Wyoming street, sent Ralph to bring a box of dynamite.

Ralph disobeyed instructions and carried the explosives into Gallagher's blacksmith shop. Whether the boy dropped the box is not known. The shop was completely demolished. The adjoining residence of Peter Barrett was also badly wrecked, while sashes for a square surrounding were cleared of glass.

Waterspout in Texas.

BURKVILLE, Tex., April 25.—A waterspout and cyclone played havoc about twelve miles west of here. Every house at Gilchrist was blown down, except one. Flying timbers struck a ride in Ralph Gilchrist's house, causing it to discharge. The bullet struck Miss Rose Gilchrist, inflicting a fatal wound. Among the houses destroyed were those of A. C. Hancock, John Joyce, R. McElvaine and J. E. O'Donnell. Several bridges were washed away.

A Bullet-Proof Head.

MUNCIE, Ind., April 25.—John Cassidy stopped James Douglas, Tuesday morning, and accused him of stealing a keg of beer, telling him that if he did not confess he would blow out his brains. Cassidy grabbed Douglas by the collar, pulled a revolver from his pocket and fired four times at Douglas' head. Four of the 38-caliber bullets struck him on the side of his head, but glanced off. Cassidy, realizing that he could not hit his mark with his fist and left. They are now in jail.

A Precautionary Measure.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Several hundred stand of small arms and repeating rifles were delivered at the treasury department Tuesday morning from the war department. The small arms were turned over to Capt. Putnam, of the treasury watch, and the repeating rifles were placed at convenient points about the treasurer's end of the building.

ON THE MARCH.

Thousands of Coxeyites Now Tramping to Washington.

The Authorities at the National Capital Much Concerned.

The Question There Is What Can the People Do With Them—Coxey Says He Will Not Head the District Commissioners' Proclamation Nor Fears Arrest.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—That the authorities of the national capital are concerning themselves very earnestly about the coming of the Coxeys people from all parts of the country is no longer concealed. The proclamation of the commissioners of the district warning the unemployed away from here is only the first step in the movement to protect this city from trouble. Washington's tramps, heretofore, have always been of the respectable kind—most of them ex-officers, or would-be office-holders, now out of pocket money, but with a shabby genteel coat and not overly dirty cuffs and collars. There are practically no factories in the district where mechanics can find employment, and no great mercantile houses to engage the services of porters, draymen, laborers, etc. What, then, can the people here do with the Coxeys? True, there is an abundance of vacant land all around the city where an army can camp, but the question is, who will feed the 10,000? The commissioners can not arrest the whole of them and send them to the workhouse—that would be as expensive as giving them rations in camp. The problem seems insoluble. It is the very general belief that the commonwealers will get here and will have a hearing, and the Washingtonians will have to make the best of it.

Reports from the various commands now moving upon the capital show the following headed this way:

At Wilmington, O., Col. Galvin's division, 200 strong.

At Dedham, Mass., Head Center Fitzgerald's company, 150 strong.

At Grand Rapids, Mich., Riley Denison's company, 200 strong.

At Ft. Wayne, Ind., Capt. Cart's company, 200 strong.

At Evans, Col., Capt. Grayson's company, 200 strong.

At Seattle, Wash., A Division, 900 strong.

At Avoca, Ia., Gen. Kelly's command, 1,350 strong.

At Boonesboro, Md., Gen. Coxeys' chief division, 500 strong.

At Indianapolis, Ind., Gen. Aubrey's company, 100 strong.

Besides these there are companies forming all over the land, to be concentrated at central points, and move to Washington early in May.

NEW YORK, April 25.—When Gen. Coxeys was shown the proclamation of the District of Columbia commissioners he remarked, quoting Holy Writ: "The wicked flee when no man pursueth." He seemed pleased to believe that his army had struck terror into congress and the president.

"Will you heed the proclamation?" he was asked.

"Emphatically no."

"If the police arrest yourself and army, what then?"

"Let them do it," snapped the general, his eyes flashing.

"Will you desist from encouraging other industrial armies from storming the capital?"

"On the contrary, I shall redouble my effort to bring every man, woman and child to Washington."

"Will not the fear of possible bloodshed deter you?"

"I do not court a resort to arms, but we will demand our rights, even if it takes physical strength to prevail. I shall not commit myself to that, but will repeat my declaration to bring congress to terms by seizing Washington until justice is done."

"What if the unemployed starve in the streets of Washington?"

"The stench from their ashes will force congressional relief."

"Is that intended in all seriousness?"

"Certainly, matters will be carried to that extreme, if necessary."

Frank Hatton Stricken With Paralysis.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Frank Hatton, of the Washington Post, at 1 o'clock Tuesday had a stroke of paralysis, and was unconscious in his office. The physicians called in pronounced the attack a severe one, extending throughout the right side. As soon as possible Mr. Hatton was removed to his residence. He partly recovered consciousness just before he was carried out. Mr. Hatton was president of the Gridiron club, which immediately issued notices of postponing its dinner announced for Saturday next.

CIVIL SERVICE TEST.

A Case Against Secretary Carlisle For a Discharge.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The case against Secretary Carlisle, brought by Eugene E. Gaddis, in a petition for writ of mandamus, was called up for hearing Tuesday in the circuit court of the district before Judge Bradley. Mr. Gaddis was formerly in the employ of the treasury department, where he was promoted by successive steps from a $1,000 position to that of membership on the central board of examiners of the civil service commission, and claims that he was discharged last August for political causes. He entered the employ of the treasury, on examination, under the rules of the civil service, and according to the affidavits which he offers in connection with his petition, maintained an enviable record for efficiency. An investigation of the causes which led to his dismissal was made by the civil service commission, and a protest was made against the action of Secretary Carlisle.

The case will be a test of the civil service law, and it is understood that it has been brought at the instigation of the commission.

DEATH BY VIOLENCE.

Prominent Indianapolis Citizen Found Dead With a Bullet Hole in His Head.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 25.—Albert T. Beck, a well known lawyer and former partner of Congressman Bynum, was found dead in his home Tuesday morning with a bullet hole in his head. He had either killed himself or had been murdered.

Persons in the house heard a shot at 3 o'clock, but thought then it was a shutter banging. A window was forced open Tuesday morning when Beck failed to answer a call and he was found lying dead on the floor. His friends think he committed suicide, but a strange revolver was found in the room.

He is a man with a history in these parts. He was involved in the tally-sheet election cases years ago, but was entirely cleared. He has been attorney for the city and is well known in state politics. He and Bynum had quarreled some time ago, and were no longer partners.

Frederick's Mayor Aroused.

FREDERICK, Md., April 25.—Sheriff Zimmerman and 30 deputies left here Tuesday morning to meet the commonwealth army at a point where it crosses the Frederick county line. Mayor Fleming is determined that the army's stop in Frederick shall be very short. The sheriff and his posse will accompany the army through the county and assist in its exit therefrom. The general opinion, however, is that the appointment of the deputies is a mistake. Trouble may result, it is said, and since the commonwealth has been behaving so well, the expense of the posse seems unnecessary.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 25.—On a Big Four train from Cincinnati Tuesday morning a man was found dead. He was supposed to be Thomas Flannery, of Cincinnati or St. Louis. A rifle ticket issued by W. NICARAGUA.

The People Seem Bent on Making Trouble.

Capt. Watson Cables the Necessity For a Light Draft Vessel.

The Nicaraguan Government Undoubtedly Will Be Held to Strict Account for the Seizure of United States Property at Greytown—Vessels To Be Sent.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The state department has had no word at all from Nicaragua since Capt. Watson's brief cable to the navy department last Thursday, and the dispatch announcing the seizure of the company's property at Greytown, gave rise to some anxiety. One of the principal officials says the Nicaraguan government will undoubtedly be held to strict account for any illegal interference with American interests, and such a seizure as reported will certainly result in a peremptory demand for reparation.

It was rumored in the navy department Tuesday morning that orders had been issued to have the gunboats Castine and Machias, at New York, be made ready to go into commission at once. This notion is said to have been taken Monday on account of a recommendation in Capt. Watson's dispatch. It is officially stated at the navy department that the Castine and Machias have not been ordered to Bluefields, and that it has not been decided to put them into commission.

The great desirability of having a light draft vessel on the east coast of Central America, has been recognized, however, and it is possible that either the Dolphin or Vesuvius may be sent to Bluefields, if circumstances require. No active steps in the matter will be taken before the receipt of Capt. Watson's written report, which is expected Wednesday.

It is now asserted on excellent authority that Secretary Herbert has learned that Capt. Wilson considers it absolutely essential to have a light draft war ship at Bluefields with the least possible delay. The San Francisco is lying off the entrance of the open harbor in the gulf, and in case of storms would be compelled to put to sea. She is nearly ten miles from the town, and can take part in matters ashore only by landing part of her force.

State Electric Plant.

COLUMBUS, O., April 25.—The joint committee appointed to ascertain whether it would be advantageous for the state to establish an electric plant in the penitentiary to light the state house and other state buildings in Columbus, reported Tuesday that it would be a proper thing to do. It is estimated by the experts employed by the committee that a complete plant, sufficient to light the state house would cost $20,000 and the cost of operating it, using the labor of the convicts, would be $3,050 a year. The state is paying now for the 1,928 lamps used in the state house $16,000 a year and it is calculated that, making all allowances and using 675 more lamps, the cash saving would pay for the plant in two years. An appropriation of $25,000 is recommended.

Keller Not a Candidate.

SPRINGFIELD, O., April 25.—Ex-Speaker J. Warren Keller, of the national house of representatives, stated Tuesday evening that he will not be a candidate for the congressional nomination in this (the Seventh) district against Congressman George Wilson, of Madison county.
